We Have It All

All over this great world of ours, young men and women will begin and finish their high school education. It is in these schools they will become aware of the realities of the adult life. Nestled in western Chesterfield is a student body of 1400 which will be better prepared to face these realities because they attended Clover Hill High School located at 13900 Hull Street Road.

Students at Clover Hill enjoy many extracurricular activities during the course of the year. They enjoy such activities during the school day as Powder Puff, Turkey Bowl, Homecoming Week, pep rallies, and the SENIORS favorite day, "Senior Skip Day."

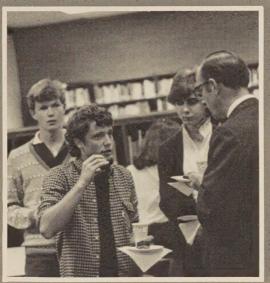

. . . And Then Some.

There are many activities a student can get involved with after school. Clover Hill offers many clubs to its students. There is a club to fit everyone's personality or interest at Clover Hill. The favorite extracurricular activities at Clover Hill are those of Varsity Football, Baseball, and Basketball. The often overlooked sports at Clover Hill include those of Track, Golf, Tennis, Wresting, Gymnastics, and especially "Girl's Sports." The Clover Hill Cheerleaders and Cavalettes boost the morale of the students, and provide entertainment through the course of the year. As you can see Clover Hill "HAS IT ALL."

Homecoming '83' Was A Weekend Of Memories

Ann Kirk?- Mark Callis puts an exclamation point on a pep rally in his spirited way.

Pep Rallies Fire-Up Fans

Football season would not have been complete without the spirit of the 1983 Pep Rallies. The Varsity and Junior Varsity Cheerleaders, aided by the high stepping Cavalette squad, cheered the student body through sixth period Pep Rallies on Fridays during the football season. The Varsity Football team, as well as the fans, were given a dose of encouragement. This combination always adds up to a better season.

Parents Return For Open House 83

Open House was held on September 26, 1983. The parents first met in the auditorium for a brief program; after which they reported to their child's homeroom class. The remaining 6 classes lasted 8 minutes each, with 5 minutes between. Many parents had a little trouble following the schedule, which caused many of them to arrive tardy. This will aid those students who seem to have the same problem.

A reception was held in the commons after the final bell. This was welcomed by the parents, especially after a long hard day back with the books.

"Ring"ing In Their Junior Year

The Junior ring ceremony was held on October 14, 1983. This prestigious annual event was given to the class of '85 by the senior class, directed by the senior class officers and their sponsor, Mrs. Kaempf. Each student was announced as he proceeded across the stage and was given a ring by principal Harold Gibson. These rings serve forever as tokens of remembrance of years at Clover Hill High School. After the ceremony, the juniors celebrated with refreshments provided by the senior class. This was yet another day to be forever etched in the memory of a student at Clover Hill.

Members of the class of 1985 try on their rings for the first time.

Proud juniors form a circle of rings with their newly acquired class of '85 rings.

The Clover Hill drama department was a hard working group during 1983/84. Their first successful production of the year was the musical mystery comedy Something's Afoot. The play was a satire of the traditional Agatha Christie murder mystery stories. Three performances were given on November 17, 18, and 19. The play was supervised by drama teacher Susan Damron. The accompanying orchestra was directed by music teacher Virginia Campbell.

A Day To Remember

The mock wedding has become a tradition for the Home Economics Department. The wedding gives home economics students the opportunity to experience the pressures, planning, and work required to produce a successful wedding.

The couples were: Rebecca Crowe and Jerry Lee Rogers, Teresa Miracle and Gene Welch, Anne Applegate and John Hudson, Melissa Montgomery and Cris Macomson.

The memories of the hard work will probably fade in time, but the joyful memories of a dream amost come true will not be forgotten by those lucky enough to have participated.

Faculty "Steps Aside" For Seniors

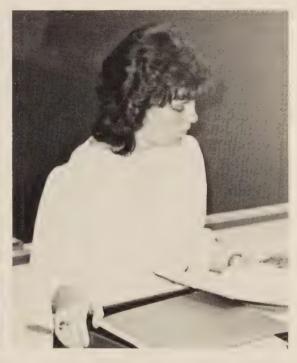

On April 27, a day anxiously awaited by all, SENIORS filled administrative and faculty positions readily armed with demerit pads and red pens. The day went smooth as SENIORS dressed in garb imitating their teacher or administrator, teaching anything from Algebra to Zoology. When the final bell sounded, SENIORS said with a heavy sigh, "I'll never be a teacher."

The marketing and distributive education department of Clover Hill provided the students with plenty of opportunities to check out the latest trends in fashion by sponsoring three seasonal fashion shows. All three shows were held in the cafeteria during lunch periods, giving all students and faculty members the chance to watch.

The first show, held on December 8, was billed as a Fashion Wonderland. Thirty models, straight out of Mrs. Debbie Luken's School of Fashion displayed the "hottest" clothes for the winter season.

The April show featured formal clothes, including gowns and tuxedos, an opportunity for students to admire possible promattire. The merchandise was again provided by various local stores.

The final fashion show of the year, held in May, featured casual summer clothes. Just as in the previous shows, lunching students found the modeling to be both educational and entertaining.

In Final Turkey Bowl

The 1983/84 school year saw the end of a Clover Hill tradition. The last Turkey Bowl Classic, sponsored by the junior class was held in April. Due to a command directly from the County School Board limiting the number of during school activities, it will most likely not be possible to schedule the event in 1985.

But this time honored tradition was given a grand send-off. Despite the controversy which arose during play, the final Turkey Bowl provided the usual thrills for the participating Juniors and Seniors, and the usual excuse to miss a class period for the Freshmen and Sophomores.

The Classic is comprised of three volleyball games which pit the graduating class against the rising seniors. In '84, the first game was for females only. In a stunning display of serving technique, the senior class pulverized their younger opponents by a score of 11-3. The Senior effort was highlighted by consistant serving and solid set ups from the middle ranks.

The much closer boy's game followed. The juniors managed to even the score by nipping the seniors 13-11. The seniors protested what seemed to be a scoring error, but to no avail. The Turkey Bowl championship would be decided in the final game, with both boys and girls taking part.

The victory went to the senior class with their final game win by a score of 11-4.

"Up Where We Belong"

On April 28, 1984, the SENIOR CLASS of Clover Hill gathered together for their final farewell from the juniors. Pastel blue and white balloons decorated the Mosque Ballroom as juniors and seniors danced to the theme of "Up Where We Belong." The juniors put on an excellent prom featuring entertainment by The Fabulous Waller Family. The evening was spectacular especially for Tony Pitts and Anne Applegate as they were crowned King and Queen of PROM '84.

Graduation 1984: "Need We Say More"

Commencement exercises for the class of '84 began on Sunday, June 10, with a baccalaureate service held in the school's auditorium. The invocation was delivered by Johnnie Bryant after the processional hymn. After another hymn, Elizabeth English gave the scripture reading. After a presentation by the Cavalcades, the sermon was given by Dr. Thomas O. Hall, Jr., Professor of Philosophy and Religious Studies at Virginia Commonwealth University. The benediction was then given by Laura Gillespie.

On Tuesday, June 12, graduation was held at the stadium, beginning at 6:30 p.m.. Tony Pitts gave the invocation, and class president Karen Downy gave welcoming address. A presentation by the Clover Hill choir followed, and then Salutatorian Laura Gillespie spoke. Assistant Principal Jeff Baughman presented several awards. The next speaker was class Valedictorian, Kim Forsyth. Class Secretary Sharon Horner introduced special guest and deliverer of the Commencement Address, Senator Paul Trible. The presentation of diplomas was performed by Principal Dr. Harold Gibson, assisted by Andrew Walters.

Both Baccalaureate and Graduation exercises were aided by Junior Marshals who were members of the National Honor Society

Breaking: The New

Breaking - the new beat of the streets

Breakdancing, a dance which sprang from the ghetto areas of New York City is a combination of gymnastics and martial arts.

Words such as "crew", "rumble", "territory", and "the best" are common with breakdancing crews. These words sound like words of a vicious street gang battle, but for breakers living in certain areas of New York and around the world these words are well known and respected.

Breakdancing has swept the United States along with Germany, Japan, England, and France by storm.

This dance is not shared by the general public because of the difficult and quite complicated steps and movements.

Breakdancing, which amazes its audiences, can be very dangerou and is not recommended for people used to the Fox Trot.

Not only is Breakdancing performed in NEW YORK but it is also performed here at Clover Hill High School.

Fashion In The Eighties

Fashion was always a social oriented pastime. At Clover Hill fashion became a very unique day to day occurence. They had your basic preppy, punk, army, new wave, and even a few fifties styles. Some of the students choose this type of attire for comfort and others to see if they could come up with the wildest fashions in school. All of these fashions that the students of Clover Hill choose to wear was just another way of saying that Clover Hill High School had it all.

Seniors Make Waves:

The Class of '84 came in on a wave in their Senior year and rode it all the way through graduation till they reached the beach. The Seniors dominated the whole year with their participation, enthusiasm, and total school spirit. Homecoming was a big success for the Senior Class. They tied in the hall decoration contest and received Honorable Mention for their outstanding float in the Homecoming Parade. The Seniors decided to stay on their wave and stuck with their "Beach theme" all the way. In November they traded their beach music for victory cries. The Senior girls, coached by an excellent staff, beat the Juniors 8-0 in the annual Powder puff game. The victory was the result of weeks of hard practice and determination. The most eagerly awaited social event of the year, the prom, went very smoothly. The Seniors had a great time and thank the Juniors for a job well done. After the Prom the Seniors prepared for the highlight of their high school career, graduation. Thanks to the hard work of Mrs. Keampf, the Baccaleurak and graduation exercises were a great success. They headed to the beach for a wild time though they will never forget the exciting times they had in high school.

Lookout Here She Comes

Throughout this year, Senior Martha Stacy has participated in many beauty pageant activities. She devoted much of her time to The Miss Star of Virginia Pageant. This competition was held on October 1, 1983 from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. and was held at the Imperial 400 off Broad Street. The pageant was judged in three catagories: talent, evening gown, and interview. All of Martha's hard work finally paid off, she was chosen first runner up in the contest. Martha has also participated in Richmond's annual Tobacco Festival for the past two years. She plans to continue competing in beauty pagents because she likes the money, travel, and new faces. According to Martha the best part of pageant competitions is that, "you get to be on t.v.". Congratulations Martha, and we hope to see you in The Miss America Pageant some Horsing Around!!

If the dog is man's best friend, the horse, according to Teresa Miracle, is woman's best friend. Her horse, Hy Time Ben, a regular quarter horse, is the 1983 Reserve Champion in the western pleasure division for the Atlantic Saddle Club.

Teresa has shown horses for many successful years. She has ridden game for six years, and for three she has been entered in the western pleasure division.

Teresa is a member of several riding clubs, including the American Quarter Horse Association, and Atlantic Saddle Club. She has also participated in the 4-H club.

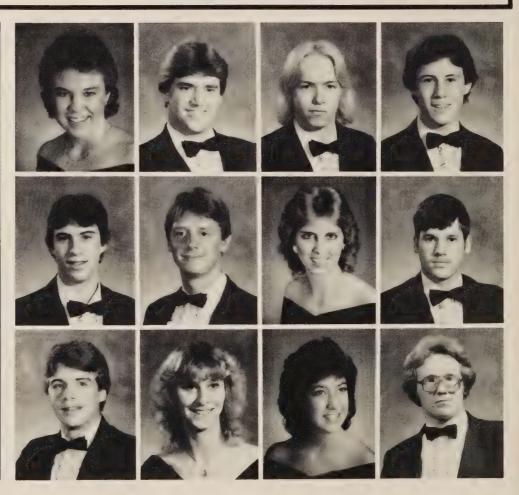

In all her years of showing, Teresa has gained numerous awards including three championship belt buckles in 1977-78, four trophies, and 54 ribbons. Teresa enjoys what she does and hopes to someday show her horse on the Quarter Horse Circuit.

Clover Hill was a school filled with many unique students who had interesting hobbies. Two such students were Terry Martin and Doug Fiamingo. During their Junior year Terry and Doug reached the rank of Eagle Scout. Both boys started scouting at a young age and have enjoyed it ever since. To be a Eagle Scout you must earn twenty-one merit badges, perform a service or community project and then present yourself before a Board of Review which consists of adults in the community associated with scouting. The Board then votes to see if you qualify to be a Eagle Scout. The award of Eagle Scout is a very high one and should be admired and respected by all.

We've Got Our Firefighters

It is the middle of third period and an interuption comes over the PA system, "Will Ronnie Hiteshew and Brian Morris please come to the office." You may think what have they done now? These two seniors have not been called to the office to see the principal, but to respond the call of someone in need. These two seniors belong to the Clover Hill Volunteer Fire Department, Engine Company No. 7.

Ronnie and Brian have spent many months learning basic fire behavior and various firefighting skills and techniques. They are in constant training to prepare for any situation which may arise during the course of their duties. In addition to his firefighting training, Ronnie has obtained his certification in Water Rescue Team.

Both Ronnie and Brian enjoy their work in helping others. Both agree that their job is a difficult one, but is wel worth the satisfaction of knowing they khave a hand in the protection of the lives and property of others . .

Lee Collins: A Profile Of An All

dent upon the individuality of its students. A good example of a well-rounded individual is senior Lee Collins. Lee is an active member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. She is president of the club in this, her fourth year of involvement. She was vice-president in her junior year. Lee considers the F.C.A. to be an important part of her life. Her involvement in the F.C.A brought her to a National Conference in Gettysburg, Pennsylvania in 1983. "It was there," she said, "that I found the true meaning of real faith in Jesus Christ. It was an experience I will never forget. The friendships I made will remain forever.'

A interesting student body is depen-

Lee enjoys being invloved in church and community related activities. Lee is also vice-president of the S.O.D.A. club. This provides her with many opportunities to befriend elementary school students. She enjoys working with younger children and helping to prepare them for Junior High School. In October, Lee represented Clover Hill at the 16th annual Youth Leadership Seminar in Valley Forge, Pennsylvania. She was sponsored by the Civitan International.

At school, Lee is involved in music and drama classes. She had a leading role in the November performance of "Something's Afoot." Looking back on the performance Lee states, "I enjoyed performing in the play, but what I enjoyed most was the opportunity to get to know the cast members better and learn more about drama."

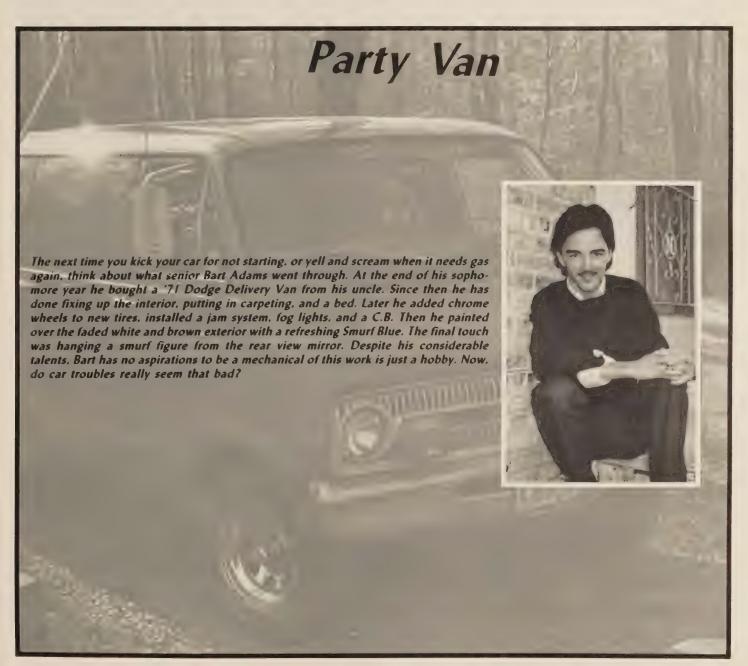

Lee Collins is a special person. She hopes to continue with music in the future. As for college plans, Lee is considering attending a training school for foreign missions. Lee sums up her high school memories by saying, "I've loved all the experiences at Clover Hill and I've learned from them all. My goal is that they will help me in my daily walk with God."

Class of 85 Heads For The Top

This year's Junior Class worked ambitiously to dispell the myth that Seniors alwyas dominate school activities. Their first step to a great year was the election of some hard workers and extremely cpaable class officers. Then the class proceeded on to a great year. Early in the year the Juniors received their class rings giving them a greater sense of idenity as a part of the Cavalier tradiion. Now that they were more coplete than ever in the schools heritage, they supported their school with unprecidented spirit. The Junior girls came within a few yards of scoring in the closing seconds of the powder puff game and matching the senior girls score. Inspired by the girls efforts, the Juniors continued their atheletic success by contributing heavily in all varsity sports, especially boy's tennis, soccer and basketball. Much of the Junior classes efforts were directed toward raising enough money to give the Seniors a prom to repay them for their help with our ring ceremony. As the year finally ran its course, SCA President Brian Wasko's words of wisdom given to us at an early year assembly came to the minds of many Junior's reflections on their year, He warned us that this year would be our toughest ever, but also, if we allowed ourselves to get involved and swept up in school spirit that it would be our best. For most of us his prophecy was correct.

No Laughing Matter

When we were still playing "Cowboys and Indians", "House" and on occassion, "Doctor", most of us were able to ride bikes. There is an exception to most every rule. In a desperate search for an interesting Junior, we came across a class discussion that caught our attention. There is a student in our school that is of a rare breed. This person is unable and does not have the nerve to ride a bike. We would leave his name anonymous, but if we were to do that you would not know who it is that should be laughed at. Our fellow student needs our help and support. If you happen to be walking by a junior who might fit this description stop, give him a pat on the back and say somthing like "We like you anyway, Junior". This is just to point out that some people are different and this is in no way meant to make fun of or offend anyone.

A Young Lady With Busy Legs

Before you complain about how far away your locker is when your late to class, think of Stephani Hallman. If she can run 26 miles in less than 4 hours, you can make it down the hall in 4 minutes. October 23, 1983, Stephani ran in her first marathon ever and came in 6th among women competitors while winning her age group. "The last two miles were really the hardest", according to Stephani. When asked if she ever thought that she might not make it, she said, "No way! The crowd did so much for me. They just kept cheering me on and I couldn't think of stopping." The qualifying time for the Boston Marathon is 3:30:00. Stephani's time was 3:30:58.3. We all wish her luck next year as she tries to make for those extra 58 seconds between her and the finish line.

Karen Holloway, a sophomore at Clover Hill, has taken 13 years of ballet, tap, toe, and jazz. She seems to be more interested in jazz. She danced 11 years with Dinty's School of Dance. She is now with Swift Creek Academy.

She has been to New York 3 times for dance conventions, where professional dancers came from all over to teach them new techniques.

She was in a show for the Retreat Hospital, where she did a jazz dance. She placed 2nd runner up in the Miss South Richmond pagent; where she did a number from the Broadway Show, A Chorus Line.

Many people at Clover Hill have heard of Johnny Lockett. Johnny is a freshman this year, but he's not letting that hold him back. Clover Hill is offering him many opportunities, such as art, gymnastics and wrestling.

He wrestled for the Clover Hill varsity wrestling team this year in the 98 pound weight class, even though he only weighed 92 pounds. He has wrestled free style for eight years for the Richmond Wrestling Club, where he was instructed by coach Bright of Douglas Freeman High School. He took third in a state match, held in Rich-

Johnny has been boxing with the Mechanicsville Boxing Club for 8 years, under Coach Sanho and Coach Southward. He took first place in a state match held in Portsmouth. In a Regional boxing match held in Philadelphia, he took third. Fifteen trophies, forty-two medals, and numerous ribbons make up the assortment of awards he has received over the past few years.

Gymnastics and art are some of his other hobbies. Last year at Swift Creek he took second place at the county meet on the pommel horse. This year at Clover Hill he performed on the gymnastics team.

Art also takes up much of his spare time. He took Art 2 with Ms. Lambert in his first year.

This young man had done very well for his first year in high school. It is not often that one comes across a freshman who is recognized for his successes in high school. Johnny Lockett is a most deserving exception.

One of the most avoided places in our school environment is that little room across from the library. The office, frequently visited by our school delinquents, is run primarily by our principal, Dr. Harold Gibson, and assistant pricipals, Mr. Andrew Walters and Mr. Jeff Baughman.

Speaking of our assistant principals, Clover Hill has proudly received our newest addition to the office staff. Jeff Baughman, a former assistant principal at Lloyd Byrd High School, says he is proud to join the staff. Clover Hill is equally as proud to receive him!

Our office is a real success with our newest addition, as it has always been in the past. Keep up the good work!

There are four counselors at Clover Hill who provide Guidance Services to all students. Students are assigned to counselors alphabetically which affords a better and closer working relationship with the counselors, students and family. The counselors at Clover Hill High School are: Mrs. Christine Grizzard, Mrs. Nancy Minnigh, Mrs. Gayle Pollard, and Mrs. Mildred Valz, Guidance Director.

Guidance services include, counseling working with cumulative records, testing administration and interpretation, group guidance, reference, service, career and educational information, placement and follow-up and evaluation and research. Counseling students is considered the counselor's major role.

Along with these services, many of the aspects of guidance requires the close cooperation of the department in working with teachers, administration, and parents. However, Mrs. Valz says, "Counselors are mainly here to serve the students."

Clover Hill's library is a great place to sit back and do some peaceful studying. Located in the center of the upstairs floor, students can even take time between classes to find needed materials. The library's goal has always been to furnish books, A-V materials, magazines, and vertical file material. This year a computer has been added to supplement the curriculum. The library staff is very proud that Clover Hill's students and teachers make good use of the library.

Learning To

The English Department, consisting of fifteen teachers, offers five levels of language arts and literature study from basic to advanced placement. Journalism, broadcast journalism, creative writing, and drama are the electives which complete the offerings. An advanced placement program in which selected students study American literature in the sophomore year, British literature in the junior year, and world literature in the senior year is in a piloting stage.

The English Department has teachers who sponsor two publications. Susan Nolte supervises the newspaper, The Cavalierian; Cindy Driskill advises the staff of The Clover Patch, the literary magazine. The drama productions are directed by Susan Damron. The fall play was Something's Afoot, a musical mystery comedy; the spring production was an adaptation of A Midsummer Night's Dream.

The department offers various opportunities for enrichment. Sandford Lyne, a published poet, visited Clover Hill during the week of October 11-14 as part of the PITS (Poets in the Schools) program sponsored by the County. He worked with the classes of Debbie Shields, Susan Nolte, Robbie Musick, and Karen Branch. The results of

The sophomore class enjoyed the full length film of Julius Caesar. The entire English department, in conjunction with the literary magazine, sponsored two films, Rebel Without a Cause and The Reivers.

Express Yourself

The Drama department, which consisted of the Drama Club and the Cavalier Players, had another successful season during the 1983-84 school year. They turned out two grand productions: Something's Afoot in the fall and A Midsummer Night's Dream in the spring. Both comedies pleased all of their audiences very much. Since the Cavalier Players made their big come back last year, they made a nice scrapbook on the history of their club that is kept in the library for anyone to see. The Cavalier Players lost their terrific director Mrs. Susan Damron after the first semester in order to further her career. They have gained another fine director Mrs. Motley.

Nibbles And Bytes And Bytes

The Mathematics Department has ten full time teachers. Seventeen different courses are offered in grades nine through twelve. Approximately 1200 of the 1400 students are involved in math. This year a second computer lab was opened. Students continued to show improvement in competition against other schools. The Clover Hill math teams placed third and fourth in the V.C.U. math contest, where more than 50 schools competed. Individual students led in several areas in the local and state individual contests. The computer team scored second place in the contest held at Longwood College. Once each month students compete in the Virginia Math League Contest as a part of the math club. A strong showing was made by the team in their first year of competition. A second advanced placement course was offered this year in the math department. A.P. Computer gave some students the opportunity to learn new techniques and additional computer languages. With the new graduation requirements for the class of 1988, the math department looks to the future in anticipation of an increased curiculum and enrollment.

Experimental Lifestyles

The Clover Hill Science Department was full of many experimental lifestyles. Each of the teachers had a double preparation for each class because the labs involved preparation totally separate from that of course content preparation. Although all the hard work put in by the teachers could have never been accomplished without the help of the lab assistants. The lab assistants program made it possible for the teachers to have managed that extra preparation. All that preparation and cooperation was done for the science student. This allowed our Clover Hill students to have taken such trips as a visit to the National Aquarium, the Virginia Science Museum and even an exciting canoe trip. All those lifestyles combined formed the successful Clover Hill Science Department.

Current Events ???

The History department was composed of a variety of subjects including U.S. History, U.S. Government, Geography and Sociology.

The department was headed by Mr. William Pritchett and many faithful assistants. Some of the special events that the department enjoyed during the year featured visits by the Virginia State police and pre-election speakers; Buck Bookman, Jeff Applegate, Sheriff Wingo and many others. Besides those speakers the students took field trips to the State Penitentiary and Washington D.C. All those activities enhanced the lives of many of Clover Hills' finest history students.

E'trange Language

The Foreign Language Department has enjoyed sharing language/culture related activities with Clover Hill's four exchange students: Catherine de Dorlodot (Belgium), Renato Relvas (Portugal), Erlend Raanaas (Norway) and Gud Kok (Holland). The language clubs (French, German, Latin and Spanish) sponsored a reception in the fall for them, which was attended by faculty, administration and host families.

The exchange students also took part in Foreign Language Week activities Dec. 5-12. They were included with other area exchange students as members of a question/answer forum during Foreign Exchange student assembly. Representing ten countries, they answered questions concerning their culture and language. During Guest Day, our foreign students served as speakers and instructors during certain language classes. What's new in business education? A popular one-year course called Business Computer Applications! There are four sections of Business Computer Applications. One of these sections is for advanced accounting students; automated accounting procedures are taught in this section. It was a shining day for Clover Hill business students at the FBLA Regional Competition. Clover Hill students placed in eight competitions. Kristin Watkins placed first in Business Mathematics. She will represent Clover Hill at the State FBLA Competition in Roanoke. Kim Mawyer took second place in Typewriting. Winners of the four third places were: Gail Duty in Job Interview, Janet Taylor and Susan Thornton in Business Graphics, Lisa Montgomery in Word Processing/Machine Transcription, Mary Clark in Job Description Manual and Hope Drake in Stenography I. Hope Drake was elected Regional Secretary.

Physical Education is a much looked forward to class during the school day. P.E. gives each student a chance to have fun and relax. There are many games and activities to occupy each and everyone's time. P.E. is a required class by the ninth and tenth graders. Advanced P.E. is offered to the eleventh and twelfth graders.

The classroom is a more serious side to P.E.. The ninth graders study many First-Aid techniques. Tenth graders look forward to the classroom, because it gives them a chance to learn about driving. They know from there it's only a short step into the Drivers Ed. car. Get into Physical Education and have fun.

The Clover Hill A. I. S. A. Chapter of the Industrial Arts Department is organized to serve the department, the school and community even on the state level if possible. During the school year the group has been involved in several activities. In late September the group spent the day at the VA State Fair, they were engaged in producing hanging flower baskets, name signs engraved in wood, and leathercraft items to be sold. In November they sponsored the "Drag Race". These money making projects were to help pay for group projects. At Christmas the members collected foods and contributed $35.00 for the needy in our Community. In spring they helped to improve school grounds.

Clover Hill has a tradition of athletic success which rivals any high school in its vicinity. In the 1893/84 school year, Clover Hill displayed in compensive spirit as reflected in all of its sports teams.

Athletics at Clover Hill are open to any student who is internited provided he meet the academic requirements for participation. Athletic competition is looked upon as an extension of the educational process. It allows students to grow both physically and emotionally. Participation in sports serves to broaden the experience of athletes and spectaturs alike, and promotes a spirit of enthusiasm and unity among the student hody.

Students at Clover Hill are always ready to lend their enthusiastic support to all of its teams. The sports in which Clover Hill competes include, football, cross country, golf, basketball, wrestling, gymnastics, baseball, softball, track teams, and soccer.

Equally important to the school environment for their contributions to instilling and maintaining school spirit and pep are the talented cheerleading and Cavalette squads.

Prepare controll for a glimpse of Clovet Hill athletics in action.

Victory The J.V. Way!!!

This year's J. V. football team enjoyed an undefeated season! The Junior Varsity Football Team continued its winning tradition at Clover Hill with their victorious (7-0) season. During the 1983 season the offense was led by Sophomore Greg Hunt, who rushed for 785 yards while scoring 11 touchdown's. The defense enjoyed a successful year while allowing only 30 points in the seven game season. Two of the defensive standouts were Robert Cooley and tackle Mark Crostic. Coaches Pruett and Edwards enjoyed their fantastic season!!

This year the Lady Cavaliers had a dream. With high hopes the Girl's Varsity Team dreamed of going to the Dominion District Tournament. With hard practice this dream came true. Although the competition was tough and the games tight the Cav's managed to improve on last year's total by 5 wins having a record of 7-13. After defeating Matoaca to gain a birth in the tournament, the Lady Cavaliers were defeated by Midlothian in first round action. With improvement on each year, the future looks bright for the Lady Cavaliers of Clover Hill.

The 1983 Clover Hill golf season was a rebuilding year. The team, with only one senior member, was young and inexperienced. The team finished fifth in the Dominion District tournament, with a 6-8-1 record.

Team standouts were senior, Scott Cullop; juniors, Brian Woford, Jeff Lenert, and Garry Wasko; sophomores Kelly Bordeaux and Jody Farrington; and freshman Chris Shobe: Cullop and Bordeaux qualified for the regional tournament at Newprt News but were unsuccessful in advancing to state. The team has high hopes for next year, looking forward to the return of seniors Brian Woford and Jeff Lenert and the addition of several newcomers who will add needed depth to the team.

The girls cross-country team opened their season with dual victories at Manchester against Manchester and Godwin. The team, which was coached by Jim Wagoner, consisted of only six girls which outran the Godwin team of fifteen girls. They went on to defeat Midlothian, Thomas Dale and Powhatan. Unfortunately, a good thing came to an end. In the last regular meet of the season the girls suffered a three point loss to Meadowbrook to finish the season with a 9-1 record. During the season the team attended three Invitationals and brought home the winning trophy at the Powhatan Invitational. In Dominion District action the team finished second overall and then third in Regional Competition. The team members were Kathy Ardena, Judy Carney, Jennie Webb, and Stephanie Hallman. The co-captains were Denise Lacey and the infamous Karen Downey. The whole team made contributions to make it a successful year but special awards were given to Denise Lacey and Judy Carney. Denise was awarded with the MVP and Judy received the Coaches Award. Congratulations Coach Wagoner and girls on a fine season.

Cross Country Runs Away With It

A Breed Apart

The Clover Hill boys cross country team, though frustrated by injuries, managed to pull out a relatively successful season in 1983. The team was young and fairly inexperienced, with Senior Mike Riley the only team member to have participated for four years. The team was led early in the season by sophomore Tim Covington and later in the year by sophomore Chris German, after Tim was injured in an automobile accident. The team finished the year with a respectable 7-4 record. Coach Jim Wagoner sees a good chance of stronger teams in the future due to the large number of talented underclassmen on the team.

A Look At The Team

The inexperienced team had only two seniors. There were only three returning players, and four underclassmen started the majority of the games.

As the regular season came to a close, the Cavaliers ended this remarkable year with a record of 17-3. WAY TO GO CAVALIERS!!! Clover Hill beat Manchester both times during the regular season, but suffered two devistating losses to Meadowbrook and one to Colonial Heights . . . Thus we shared the Co-Championship with Manchester High. The Cavaliers had a rough night and lost the regional-birth play-off game to Manchester. The last step was the tournament and misfortune hit the Cavliers again. Varina ended the Cavaliers 1983-84 season. Thus ended the season of the "Cinderella" team.

Defense! Defense! Defense!

Victory! Senior Ross Eggleston has his tired paw raised after a regional tournament win.

"Take it easy Ross, you don't want to murder the bum!" Coach Alberston gives some pointers from the sidelines.

The Clover Hill Wrestling team captured its first district title in 1984. The team finished in a three-way tie for the district championship with L.C. Bird and Thomas Dale. The grappling Cavialiers finished with an 8-1 record, their only defeat to Thomas Dale.

The Cavs placed a record number of wrestlers in the finals of the district tournament at Mills Godwin on February 4. Brian Wasko at 112, Ryan Eggleston at 119, Steve Norris at 155, and Ross Eggleston at 176, all competed for district championships. Both Eggleston brothers came away with gold medals. Other place winners were John Gerold (4th) and Donnie Mansfield (4th).

Four wrestlers finished in the top four of the regional tournament, qualifying themselves for state competition. Brian Wasko and Ross Eggleston became Clover Hill's first regional champions. Ryan Eggleston placed second and Steve Norris placed fourth.

An injury to knee cartilage prevented sophomore Ryan Eggleston from competing the next week in the AA state tournament in Danville. Seniors Brian Wasko and Steve Norris fared well, placing third and sixth respectively.

Overall, the Cavalier wrestlers had a very outstanding year. Much credit for their success must go to Coach Jim Alberston in his first year at Cover Hill.

Anne Haas creates a masterpiece for the yearbook.

Once again, the year has been displayed pictorially by a staff of hard working Cavalier students. Without receiving credit for the course, a core of industrious students worked all year to produce a book that will carry memories of the 1983-1984 school year spent at Clover Hill.

The students, except for two returnees, were novices. This meant that the year was filled with learning to crop pictures, draw layouts, write articles, meet deadlines (some of the time), and even sell ads.

This year's staff is pleased to present your 1984 DUCEMUS to you . . .

Ms. Bryant and Ms. Lambert decide on which picture is best to use amid "yearbook confusion".

Honorary Society is re"formed"

For the first time in many years Quill and Scroll is again a functioning club. In the fall the three publications sponsors selected the membership for their staff members who met Quill and Sroll criterior. These students have met throughout the year. They even sponsored the 1984 Current Events Quiz that Junior Greg Smith won. A second set of members were selected in the spring.

Sponsor Susan Nolte presents editor Beth Graham an award for her service to the Cavalierian.

The Cavalierian is a contemporary news magazine, staffed by and written for the students of Clover Hill High School. The Cavalierian prints material of concern to the entire student body and works closely with the administration to produce an effective means for the betterment of the students of Clover Hill High School.

In 1984, the Cavalierian, in its second year, produced four issues. Each contained news articles of interest to the students, several feature articles, a sports section, editorial comments, entertainment information, and several comics. The paper was very effective in bringing important issues into clearer focus.

The staff included Editor, Beth Graham; Sports Editor, Brian Wasko; Reporters, Maria Reynolds, Kim Forsyth, Brian Comes, Matt Vance, John MacDonald, and David Allen. The staff photographers were Beth Graham and David Goff. Adding feature material were Becky Crowe, and Noelle Labar. The chief supervisor and advisor was Mrs. Susan Nolte.

Patience

During its third year, Students Organized to Develop Attitudes was busy working with fifth grade students at Swift Creek Elementary, Grange Hall and Watkins Elementary Schools. The members were assigned to a fifth grade class for the entire year. Each team visited twice a month and talked to the class about issues and problems centered around entering middle school. In addition, the members sold doughnuts to raise money to buy gifts for their kids on special occasions.

Chess Club

The highlight of this year's activities in the chess club was an arranged meet with the Meadowbrook High School Chess Club. The score was tied., but more importantly, club members had the chance to meet new people with the same interest in their hobby. The chess club also arranged a meet with the faculty. Due to the absence of a few key faculty players, the students won that meet.

Literary Magazine Paves An Avenue For Clover Hill Literature

The literary magazine of Clover Hill was printed for the eleventh consecutive year in 1984. Sponsored by Mrs. Cindy Driskill, the staff members worked year-round to collect stories from students, select and edit the best works, and design and layout the magazine. The Magazine contained what is considered the best of Clover Hill's poetry and short prose works. Cash prizes were awarded to the three poems and short stories which were judged best by a panel of English teachers. The 1984 issue was given the theme "Avenues" and was illustrated by art work produced by Clover Hill students.

The Computer Club has had a rip-roaring year. We used the Post-Cereals fun and fitness Program as our major fund raising event. All money earned goes toward the purchase of computer equipment for the school. Our computer team comprised of James Mc. Nabb, John Ehler, Rob Van Den Nievwen, and Brian Lindholm, placed second in the State Computer Championship. We welcome prospective members for next year.

The Clover Hill Committee-standing

Clover Hill has been recognized for many years as a paragon of enthusiasm and school spirit. In an effort to encourage this Cavalier-mania, the SCA in 1983 instituted what came to be known as the 'Standing Committee.' The committee, brainchild of SCA president Brian Wasko, was intended to support the efforts of the Pep Club. The committee in fact, was not even classified as a club, bur rather a division of the SCA. Since all Clover Hill students are in effect members of the SCA, membership in the Standing Committee was open to the entire student body. The only requirement for participation was that all members of the committee sign a pledge stating thier intent to remain standing during Clover Hill basketball games. No meetings were held and the organization of the committee was done by students during games. The success of the committee was apparent from the first game of the year. Over three hundred students signed pledges to "stand" behind the Cavalier basketball team. The Standing Committee, with it's unofficial slogan, "I feel good!" provided consistantly enthusiastic support of the team all season long. Clover Hill fans time and again out-cheered, outshouted, and out-classed opposing spectators. With continued support by students and the SCA, the Standing Committee will continue to bring out the excitement and pride of Clover Hill athletics.

Future Health Careers Gives A Glimpse Of Tomorrow

Have you ever been to a hospital, a clinic, or a blood bank. These and many other places are frequently the topic at a FHC meeting.

The FHC are concerned with maintaining good health, doctoring, nursing, etc. . . This club, directed by Mrs. Cooke, is known for it's successful blood drives each school year. Many responsible students turn out to pledge!

This has been a very successful club and is well represented . . . KEEP UP THE GOOD WORK!!

The French club began the year at Homecoming. Our float, which celebrated the legend of the Three Musketeers, won second place.

The rest of the fall was busy with making money for our French Club scholarship which is given each year to a senior in the French Club. We sold pies at Thanksgiving and Santa-grams at Christmas.

The club also used some of its money this year to donate some books in French to the Clover Hill library.

We finished the year with our traditional, popular activity, a trip to a French restaurant. This year we went to La Petite France.

FBLA Has Lots Of Business

The FBLA Chapter of Clover Hill High School had an outstanding year in activities and awards presented at both the Regional and State Levels.

The FBLA participated in several community projects such as the Thanksgiving Basket for the Chesterfield Welfare Department and Christmas Adoption Program. The chapter adopted a family of four members and bought clothes, food, and toys. The chapter also visited the Chesterfield County Nursing Home and took them home-made stockings filled with hard candy,

The FBLA had a Christmas social, a Vocational EDucation Week social, and also a covered dish banquet which the parents were invited to attend. At the banquet,, the new officers were installed and the seniors were presented their graduation gifts.

At the Regional Competition, Kristin Watkins placed first in Business Mathematics and she also placed first at the State Competition. She will complete on the National Level in July. Kim Mawyer placed second in Typewriting: Lisa Montgomery, third in Word Processing: Janet Taylor and Susan Thornton, third in Business Graphics; Gail Duty, third in Job Interview; Mary Clark, third in Job Description Manual: Hope Drake, third in Stenography. Hope Drake was also nominated for Regional Secretary.

At the state Competition, Clover Hill was recognized for being an Honor Chapter and donating the most money for Project ASK in our region. We raised the money by having a Type-a-Thon during Vocational Education Week. We also received an award for our Annual Report.

During the year, we have had several guest speakers from Business Colleges and Businesses in our area.

Talent Show shows talent

Clover Hill's annual talent show was held on May 17, 1984. and was a great success. The show, sponsored by the Athletic Association, featured several entertaining acts performed by students at the school. The night was billed as "An Evening with the Stars" and nearly packed the school's auditorium. The acts were rated by five special guest judges and awards were given to the five best acts of the evening. The place winners for this show were surprisingly more varied than in past years. Instead of the usual sweep of singing acts, two of the top three performances were dancing acts. Susan Sobrito and Katherine Smith placed third with a tap dancing routine, and Wende McCullum, with her solo rendition of "Hello", captured the prize for first runner-up. By far the most popular act of the night was a Michael Jackson/breakdancing performance which stole the show and the $50 prize for first place. The winning act, known as the Phi Beta Breakers was composed of Michael Harris, Donnie Knight, and J.J. McDonald. The show's Masters of Ceremony were Brian and Garry Wasko, known more commonly as the Wasko Brothers. They provided a touch of comic entertainment between acts. Mrs. Nancy Pausic and Mrs. Margaret Waldrop, members of the Athletic Association, were responsible for the organization and overall success of the show.

The Keyette Club is a service organinzation composed of sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Like the Key Club, the Keyetts are sponsored by the Swift Creek Kiwanis Club. The 1983-84 school year was the first year of operation for the club and the club successfully completed many projects in addition to establishing its membership. Projects included such activities as visitation to Chippenham Hospital, "adopting" grandparents at the Chesterfield Nursing Home, and collecting money for Thanksgiving food baskets for the needy.

The Science Fiction Club was formed this year. We began by discussing our varied interin the different areas of science fiction. We also generated ideas for club activities. In October, we took a trip to the Science Museum of Virginia which was lots of fun. Recently, we planned to see the new film, "Ice Pirates." We have also spent several meetings playing our version of "science fiction trivia". Each membe sudmits questions a d we have teams. We hope to also play a Star Wars game soon. At our meetings, we also dicuss current evvents pertaining to science fiction such as; convention, new books films etc. In December, we had a Christmas party and we are planning an end-of-year celebration for June.

F.H.A has done many exciting things this year. They started things off with a fall rally followed by a toy drive at Christmas. F.H.A. students also learned how to sell things as they sold cookies and posters to help out the Home Ec. department. They also held a tea for the teachers which was very successful. For the remainder of the year they had a mother-daughter banquet and brought in new F.H.A. officers.

Teachers enjoy a banquet prepared by F.H.A.

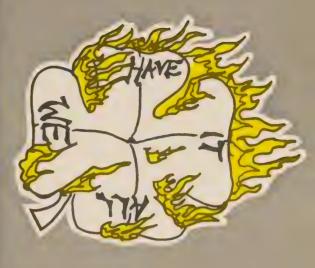

Is this fused processed pieces parts?

The students at Clover closed the year with a bang. The last few weeks were a flurry of activities: exams, prom. banquets, graduation, prayers to pass a class, and plans for the summer. As the year becomes a memory the people involved will 'recall it all'.

In Appreciation The 1984 Ducemus Staff Dedicates this Ducemus to Mrs. Cen Waters

Creative people are especially observant and they value accurate observation (telling themselves the truth) more than other people do . . . They are by constitution more vigorous, and have available to them an exceptional fund of psychic and physical energy. Frank Barrow

Every true artist, so far as his art went, has always gone out of himself—has forgotten his personal interest and become man thinking for the whole race. H. G. Wells

How fitting are these words for our guest of honor this evening! Cen Waters embodies all the finest qualities of good teaching, creativity, and artistic ability. her interests are universal in nature. The only person I know of who compares with her wide range of interests and abilities is Thomas Jefferson. Cen Waters is truly a renaissance woman with whom we are privileged to come in contact. Although her special interest is Pre-Columbian art, she is no stranger to all aspects of the world of artistic— Drawing, Painting, Sculpture, Ceramics, Macrame, Weaving, Mosaics, and on and on. If it is art, Cen Waters is involved. I have been blessed to be able to work with Cen Waters for ten of the twenty years she has worked in Chesterfield County.

When I first met her, I knew there was something different about this lady. The strength of her personality and her love for young people were characteristics that were immediately evident. I have never changed my feelings about Mrs. Waters. I have often remarked to others a simple statement which I believe epitomizes the work of Mrs. Waters as a professional teacher: If a student has a tiny bit of talent or a huge amount of talent. Cen Waters can draw it forth and mold it into something meaningful. I have seen :her do it over and over. If you want something done for the school, ask Cen. If you want something done for the state, ask Cen. If you want something done nationally, ask Cen.

Here are some highlights of her career in Chesterfield County—at Meadowbrook High school—and at Clover Hill High School:

Mrs. Waters designed the County School Board Seal of 1968.

Organized the art department at the new CHHS.

Two ninth graders, under Mrs. Waters direction, constructed a six-foot Cavalier sculpture which now stands in the school library.

Teacher of the Year at Meadowbrook, 1971.

Virginia Art Teacher of the Year, 1983

Currently President of the Virginia Art Education Association

Chairman and Coordinator of the first county-wide Fine Arts Festival

Designed school crest, Clover Hill and, school emblen, the Cavalier.

Yearbook sponsor for three years and won first place award at V.H.S.L.

Organized the initial chapter at CHHS of the National Art Honor Society

Developed Mosaics representing Academics, Activities, and Athletics

Brought art to the halls of the Virginia Legislature

Coordinated the First and Merchants Art Shows

We will miss you, your interest in young people, your high standards for excellence, your powers of observation, the honors you bring to our school and our school system, and your ability to bring out the best in the people with whom you have contact. We know that you will continue with your good work as President of VAEA and other professional associations.

We know you will have time to pursue some of your personal interests. We also know that you will probably stay busier than ever. Our best wishes go with you in all that you do. Thank you for your contributions to education. Chesterfield County, and to Clover Hill High School. The young people you have served are your monuments, the influence they have on our society are your contributions also. Thank you.

In appreciation for her work as yearbook sponsor from 1972-1975 and her active participation with the yearbook from then on, as well as her effort in making Clover Hill's art department the best, not only in our county but also in the state— We the 1984 Staff dedicate this year's Ducemus to Mrs. Cen Waters.

We Had It All And Now It's Time To Bid Farewell

AS 1984 DRAWS TO A CLOSE THE CAVALIERS LOOK BACK OVER A YEAR FULL 'OF IT ALL'. THE YEAR BROUGHT PAIN AND PLEASURE. IT HAD SPORTS AND CLASSES. THE NICE MEMORIES ARE THE ONES THAT WILL LAST THE LONGEST. THE STAFF OF THIS YEARBOOK HOPES THAT THE FUTURE SMILES KINDLY ON ALL OF YOU. AND AS ONE OF THE GRADUATION SPEAKERS SAID, "WE WISH YOU THE BEST FOR WHATEVER PATH YOU MAY TAKE. WE HOPE THAT THIS YEAR WILL BE ONE OF THE HIGHLIGHTS THAT YOU REMEMBER".

The faces of the end

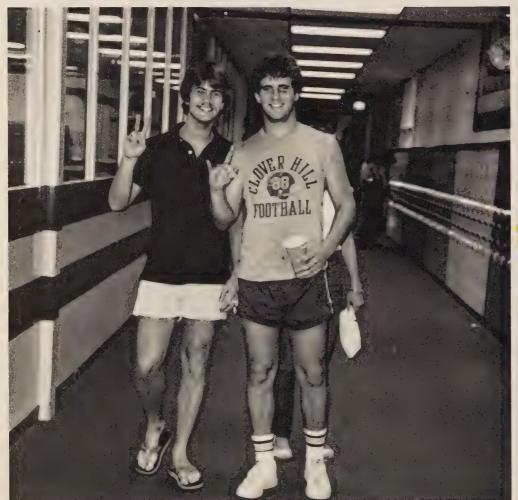

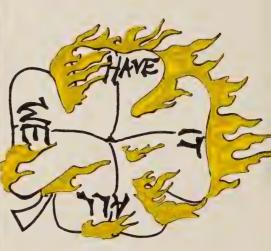

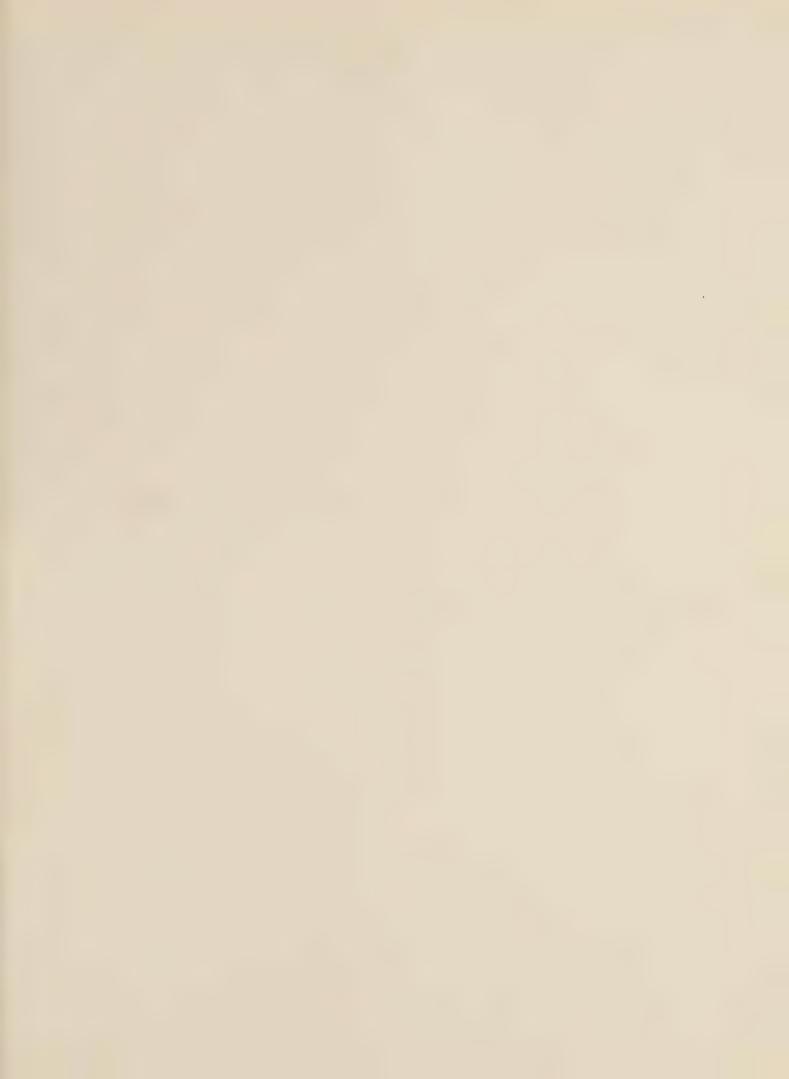

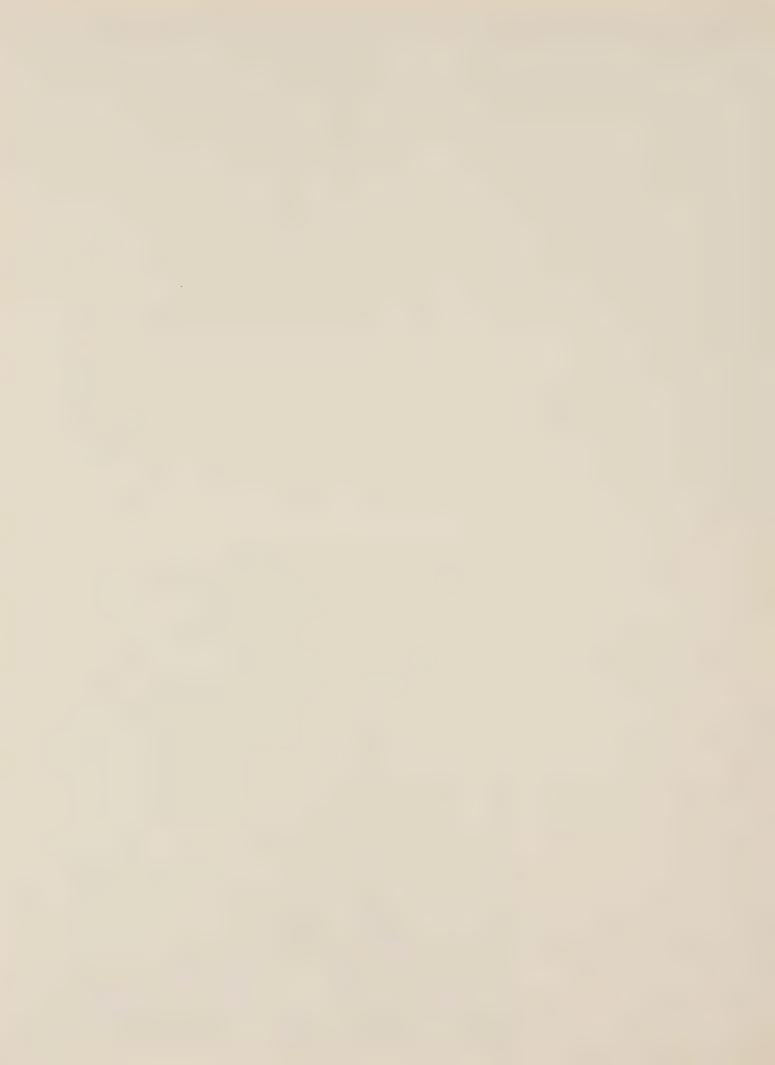

The final hooray as the class of '84 is no more . .
